stroyed the peace of the home in the past.

The husband and wife were in court to show reason why their three children should not be placed in some institution, where surroundings would be more conductive to their general welfare. Zaepfel, who is beed cook at the Soldiers' Home, said that his wife was given to the liberal consumption of alcoholic situations, said that his wife was given to the liberal consumption of alcoholic situations, and that he husband himself was addicted to the use of choice liquors, and in short, that he was in "sport." The wife deposed that Zaepfel frequently did not return to the house until z o'clock in the morning, and that he zaw practically nothing of his children.
